

Express Training Solutions

Introducing the first online Child Protection Training specifically for Recreation and Parks Workers

LA Times, May 5, 2008

"Veteran teacher at Santa Monica school held on suspicion of molestation"

"The instructor at Lincoln Middle School has been with the school system 30 years. He is suspected of molesting four female students...."

Newspapers today are filled with stories like this. The incidents take place at parks, schools, and homes. The perpetrators are teachers, recreation leaders, coaches, church leaders... all people with heightened access to children.

Is your parks department prepared?

Have you REALLY talked directly and plainly about these issues with your staff?

If not, don't wait. Take action now to protect the children under your supervision.

expresstrainingsolutions.com

Express Training Solutions has developed a simple to use eLearning training course designed specifically for Parks and Recreation employees. In a direct no-nonsense approach, the experts at Express Training Solutions have tackled this important topic, in a two hour course which can be deployed on a local network, on the web, or distributed to workers on a CD they take home with them.

Topics: The course includes segments on what constitutes child abuse and molestation, the effects on youngsters, types of child molesters, signs to watch out for, child abuse reporting and how to deter child molesters in parks and recreation programs. Included are best practice parks policies for workers to following in dealing with program participants.

Assessments: By embedding scored assessments directly into the eLearning module, employees get immediate feedback on what they are learning. The out-of-the-box version of this course includes a preset passpoint of 80% requiring participants to answer 80% of the embedded questions correctly to pass the course.

- Concerned about how well your recreation department trains its workers in Child Protection issues?
- Worried about whether you have done everything you can to deter and prevent child molestation incidents in your recreation programs?
- Concerned about how to train your seasonal workers effectively?
- Relying on paper policy handouts to keep your department out of trouble and out of the newspaper?

Express Training Solutions may have the answer for you with our new Child Protection Training...

Demonstrated Proficiency: As the Recreation Manager or Risk Manager for your organization, our embedded assessments give you the added assurance that workers have demonstrated a basic understanding of child protection issues and practices. This kind of competency verification can be helpful in demonstrating your commitment to educating workers on this sensitive issue, should the need arise.

Customization: For a small additional fee, Express Training Solutions can rapidly customize the course to include your logo and your specific child abuse reporting procedures to truly make this a complete package for your organization.

Email info@expresstrainingsolutions.com to request information about bringing our Child Protection Training to your organization TODAY.

Or visit our website at www.expresstrainingsolutions.com